Public Notice to Saegertown and the Area

As everyone knows by now, there was a major fire at the Parker-Lord Corporation plant in Saegertown yesterday morning.

Be advised: Saegertown Borough water is safe to drink and use. The water system was not affected. There is a water line break on upper Euclid Ave., and we are currently working to repair the problem.

The air quality is good and will continue to be monitored.

In addition to Saegertown, dozens of surrounding fire and ambulance departments were on scene to control the incident. Crawford County Emergency Management personnel, along with Penna. Dept. of Environmental Protection, Crawford County and Borough officials were on scene monitoring the situation.

Currently, there is no problem with the air quality in the area. Water from the fire was contained in retention ponds designed for containment if an incident like yesterday ever happened, and the system worked. The contained run-off is currently being removed by an approved contractor.

Water and air quality continue to be monitored.

No firemen were killed as was erroneously reported. Several were treated at local hospitals and all have been released.
